The German Air Ministry (Reichsluftfahrtministerium; RLM) had a system for aircraft designation which was an attempt by the aviation authorities of the Third Reich to standardize and produce an identifier for each aircraft design's airframe type produced in Germany. It was in use from 1933 to 1945 though many pre-1933 aircraft were included and the system had changes over those years.

Trials began in early 1940 on both the Bf 109 and Bf 110. They did not just involve the substitution of RLM 02 for one of the darker colours, the very high demarcation line for the underside colour (RLM 65) was another result of these trials. A quick visit to a decent museum will confirm the RLM 02 on unrestored artefacts. Cheers Steve RLM 81 is something of an enigma at the moment, it maybe that there were indeed two distinctly different versions, a brown olive and a green olive version. The evidence is mounting that RLM 83 was a blue colour and NOT the olive green colour previously assumed. I generally use the Sovereign Hobbies (ex White Ensign) enamels for my RLM colours.
